Popular Man-Foremost among the prominent men of Chicago to-day is Washington Hesing, scholar, journalist, man of affairs and President Cleveland's choice for postmaster. Clean cut, with advanceideas on the great problems of the time, cultured, student of things and men, the beneficiary of the best educational advantages of two continents, a recognized leader and to a great extent the political guide and philosopher for an element composing one-third of Chicago's population, Mr. Hesing can be recknowd with justice among the men who helped make Chicago great and on whom she depends for a con-tinuation of her prosperity. Since boyhood his life has been as an open book to be read of all men. private character, says the Chicago Post, is blameless and his public career unsmirched. A lovable personality, a steadfast friend, a vigorous but generous opponent and a thoroughgoing Chicagoan is Mr. Hesing, admired by all who have the pleasure of his acquaintance and respected even by those who differ from him. As managing editor of the Illinois Stuats Zeitung he wields an immense power and exerts a tremendous influnce among the German-born and German-descended residents of Illinois. So potent is this moral force that it is due much of the credit of carrying Illinois into the democratic column in nati in 1849, and, with his family, mands upon the rank and me of the came to this gity five years later.

He was in school almost constantly until 1851, when he went to Europe on a protracted visit. Upon his return to this city he entered the University of St. Mary's of the Lake, after which he attended the University of Chicago for one term. Mr. Hesing then prepared for Yale college, and was graduated from that institution with the degree of bachelor of arts in 1870. Leaving college he went to Europe to study political economy, international law, the science of government and the history of German liter ature. The great fire of 1871 cause him to return to this city, and on the 21st of November of that year h entered the service of the Illinoi Staats Zeitung, of which paper he has for many years been managing edito as well as general director of its busi-ness affairs. When twenty-two years of age he was appointed on the board of education. He was subsequently reappointed, but declined to serve second term. In 1880 he was elected a member of the county board of education, and served as president of that body during his term of office.
